JULY RECAP

In July, I had 8 solo shows scheduled, but ended up playing 7 due to one rain cancellation. I started the month at Cumberland Trail in Pataskala, where it always seems to rain every time I go there. This time, the rain was helpful because it brought everyone into the restaurant area where I was playing.

On July 13th, I released my rendition of "Rainbow Connection" that I arranged and recorded for a father-daughter dance at a wedding. Listen to it at the link below the newsletter!

After taking a vacation with my family down to Alabama and New Orleans, I was ready to get back out again. My next show was at Vinberige Vineyards in Glenford, OH, but storms hit and the electricity was faulty at the facilities, causing the place to close for the night. It was definitely disappointing considering how many people were planning on being there that night. The next day, I played a birthday party in Glenford, OH and this time, the storms were earlier in the day and did not affect the performance. I had a great time! I finished the weekend by playing at Dowling Park for the second time. It was good to hang with the Bremen folks for a night and it is always good to see what Mary is up to at the beautiful downtown park.

The next Friday (the 23rd), I played in the window sill at A Season In Time for a few hours during the Lancaster Festival Art Walk. I was joined by Nick Justice and later Noah Johnson on cajon and percussion while we enjoyed the company of thousands in the downtown area. The next day, I played at Brewery 33 in Logan for the second time and ended up in a bit of a volume battle between myself and the guy at the Hungry Buffalo next door. However, I think I won as some of the Hungry Buffalo customers came over to my side!

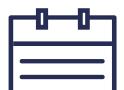

I finished the month by playing at the Lancaster Festival Happy Hour Singer/Songwriter event at the Ale House, and Papa Boo's out on Buckeye Lake. I had a great time playing for so many people and bantering. Remember, feel free to make requests!

I am very happy to announce that at Papa Boo's, I sold my 100th Waiting on a Plane CD! Thanks to everybody who purchased over the last couple months. I've loved hearing everyone's feedback. If you did not purchase one but want one, there is a possibility that I may restock, but I need to get a grasp on the demand. In the meantime, y'all will just have to share. Thanks again!

I have 6 shows planned for August as I start the process of heading back to college for the year. I have a ton of shows planned or getting sorted out for September and October, so make sure you keep updated with my events schedule on my website.
